

The threat of things to come!

Remainers conveniently fail to mention in their typical rhetoric that the country was bamboozled by Ted Heath into voting for a continental trade market. It all looked fine and dandy on paper. The result of the vote was 1/3 No and 2/3rds (67%) Yes.

Strongly suspecting the worst, i.e., a political union - I voted No, and I have been proved right!

Over the last 40 years the EU has split the population of the continent causing major disruption to the democratic set-up. The EU works towards a "New World Order" and a 'World Government', a principle aim being to overcome Western Democracy. The EU does not do democracy as we see daily, and it is interfering with our Parliamentary system even now. Mrs. May is already talking of going to Brussels for further 'negotiations', even after Tuesday's vote!

Co-ordinated efforts at Westminster to betray Brexit by former Attorney General Dominic Grieve are highlighted by him attending a meeting of Remainers at, of all places, the EU's London headquarters, which you and I pay for!

Others attendees included Blair's former spin doctor, Alistair Campbell; with Tories and Lib Dems, all doing their best (it seems) to subvert the 2016 referendum. Equally worrying is the EU's involvement in this cabal by allowing their London HQ to be used for such purposes, thus putting bureaucrats at the centre of interference with democracy. This is further evidence of 'the enemy within' working towards overturning the people's vote.

Subverting democracy is a dangerous game. Far from changing the public's mind, Project Fear and backroom wheeler-dealing only polarises opinions making us even more determined to leave the corrupt and damaging EU. It also destroys trust by the public for our democratic system.

The 'New World Order' that the EU, the Bilderbergs, George Soros and the like (to name just a few) propose are attempts at suffocating Western Democracy. We abhor the lack of 'clout' by United Nations. Globalisation will envelop the world if we allow it. Our children's generation, and their children, may find themselves under more dictatorial governments, possibly worse. We see the signs of this now! UKIP keeps banging on about it but no other political party seem remotely interested in talking about it. Why should they want to brush it under the carpet?

As long as we maintain the fight, it can't succeed, as shown by the recent elections in Germany, Italy, France, etc. Now, Austria has a lot to say about all this. The public realise what's going on behind our backs and are rising up. Look how Greece is treated by the EU. They have to borrow £ millions just to pay the EU back, the tax payers' money was handed out to them as loans just to keep them going - loans they can never afford to pay back. Utter madness! A financial merry-go-round out of control. No wonder the euro is imploding. Since the sub-prime crises of 2011, no bank offers loans without security of re-payments.

The UK Referendum shocked the EU with no process to deal with a country leaving. It never thought any of the 28 would have the infernal cheek to leave! Meanwhile, the enemy within - 'Common Purpose' - do their damnest to try to unseat it all.

In many countries, we are admired for making this move. Mr. Macron is very unpopular in France, and whilst the EU may have breathed a sigh of relief when such a federalist became president, his 'popularity' hasn't last five minutes.

It's a long campaign, but we will collectively win, if we stick together.

'Negotiating' with EU bureaucrats is like trying to put toothpaste back into the tube! Better to spend the time and tax payers money on practical matters - training Doctors, Surgeons, Nurses, Police Officers,

Army, Air Force & Naval personnel, Teachers, Border Controls etc. - all the professions that a civilised country needs.

Or, are we just being silly by not bowing down to the unelected bureaucrats, letting them ride roughshod over the lot of us?
