

Where is Brexit Heading?

We run the risk of wandering along for the next 12 months or so, claiming a bit of ground one day, and losing a bit the next.

Neither Mr. Juncker or Mr. Barnier are 'negotiators'. They can't 'negotiate' as they are not allowed to, being hide-bound by thousands of EU rules and Directives, all nodded thro' by hundreds of MEPs over 40 years or more. The UKIP MEPs are the only British ones who have stood their ground. Look at the voting figures for other UK parties. Outrageous!

Negotiators look at situations to seek the common ground to the advantage of both sides. The EU doesn't do this – because it doesn't know how to. It only knows 'control'.

If infrastructure is not in place by March 2019, e.g., border Controls, do we kiss goodbye to the independence that the Referendum promised?

David Davis must ensure Brexit remains centre stage. Another danger is negativity by most of the media, the BBC in particular, they bow to the EU's 'Media Grant'.

Brussels is the least of our problems. It is the enemy within we must expose – Blair, Heseltine, Clark, the multi-millionaire Kinnocks (fine example of socialists that they are), Clegg – and the rest of them living the life of Reilly off the fat of the lamb (us taxpayers). 'Common Purpose' in universities and the Civil Service continues to undermine our democracy.

Charity begins at home for young people suffering financially, the struggling NHS and care services, the police, the armed services and so on.

We must start caring for our communities.

The younger generation didn't make the present but they are the future. What the British people did in prior generations was to build for the benefit of those who follow... the young and old together.

By its very nature, the EU will only drag us down. The euro is a failing political currency, not a commercial one. To expect 28 countries with different languages, cultures and traditions to act as one has proved ridiculous over the last 40 years. It doesn't work – because it can't!

UKIP is realistic in analysing the future for this nation. If you have children, you understand the meaning of working for the future. Not selfishly, but for everyone.

Brexit must conclude by exiting from the control of Brussels, with our firm promise of being good friends and trading freely with all countries of the world, not only those on the continent of Europe.
